Please pick up a page of print in a font you would normally find hard to read. Please use a page that has dense black print on white paper, without pictures or large spaces. Then answer the following questions thinking both about your normal experiences reading and the page in front of you.

	Please tick if answers in bold are given:
Do words get faint colours around them?
Do words on a page move or jump around or do they look still?	*
Do words go smaller/bigger when reading or seem a constant size?
Do words fade or darken when you are reading?	*
Do patterns or shadows appear in the text or in the spaces between the words?	*
Do lines of words seem jumbled or bent or do they sit in straight lines?
Does the page appear calm or does it flicker or flash ?
Do words on a page seem too far apart or merge together ? Or is the spacing just right?	*
